Grass growing out of gravelly dirt; the seamless earth..seemed about to say he did not know, but he knew better than to try to lie to Early. He sighed..as much to do with it as his father expected? Maybe he'd find out when he grew up..It was only illusion, of course, but it checked him a moment in his spell, and then he had to undo the illusion, bringing back the door frame around him, the walls and roof beams, the gleam of light on crockery, the hearth stones, the table. But nobody sat at the table. His enemy was gone..ever seen anyone. He saw the thin arms, the swollen joints of elbow and wrist, the childish nape..had already died away, but a ruffling, a roughening, a shudder, again, and again..as the dragons do..nothing but bone and shadow. As Tern came close she tried to sit up and to speak. Her daughter."What I have to do, you see," the old wizard said, still talking to Silence because it was a comfort to talk to him even if he was no longer there, "is get into the mountain, right inside; but not the way a sorcerer-pro prospector does; not just slipping about between things and looking and tasting. Deeper. All the way in. Not the veins, but the bones. So," and standing there alone in the high pasture, in the noon light, Heleth opened his arms wide in the gesture of invocation that opens all the greater spells; and he spoke.."I heard -" she said, and could not say what she had heard.."She saved me but I couldn't save her," he said fiercely to the men and women of the mountain..she must have noticed it..into the water, feeling the push and stir of the current all along her body.
