At each level, new relationships and meanings emerge that are functions of the level itself and don't exist at all in the levels beneath. For instance, there are twenty-six letters in the alphabet. One letter doesn't carry a lot of information, but when you string them together into words, the number of things you can describe fills a dictionary. When you assemble words into sentences, sentences into paragraphs, and so on up to a book, the variety is as good as infinite, and you can convey any meaning you want. Yet all the books ever written in English only use the same twenty-six letters." .appears to be at once enthralled by the offerings on the tall, two-fold menu..After trembling against the boot toe, the five-dollar bill blows free . . . and twirls under the truck..Leilani was clearly unbreakable..more than just a pathetic cripple.
